Construction Awards Alliance Construction NVQs & City & Guilds Health & Safety NVQ's

Seaham Safety Services Ltd are a Construction Awards Alliance and City & Guilds approved On Site Assessment and Training (OSAT) Centre. On Site Assessment and Training means you and your employees can gain NVQ's in their trade/occupation whilst they are at work — it's all done on site, during normal working days.

Lots of workers are highly skilled and have years of experience but do not have the qualifications to prove it. On Site Assessment allows workers to gain these qualifications while they are working.

If your company is registered with CITB Construction-Skills you may be able to claim CITB Grants to pay towards the process for both Construction Awards Alliance and City & Guilds NVQs.

How it works

Induction and profiling with an assessor

An assessor will make an initial assessment of an employee's skills, they will also explain what the delegate needs to do to prove that they have the skills to achieve their qualification and set up a folder to keep any suitable evidence in. This is a simple process that only takes a couple of hours.

Start gathering evidence

There are various ways by which a delegate can prove that they have the necessary skills and experience to do their job for example:

- Observation by the NVQ Assessor

- Documentation such as plans, risk assessments and method statements
- Photographs/video of the delegate carrying out their work, verified by their assessor
- Certificates of previous qualifications or courses that the delegate has done
- Timesheets for the delegates work signed and authenticated
- Witness Testimonials of the delegates knowledge and skills, usually from a supervisor or employer
- Question and Answer Session between the delegate and the assessor.
